Website Name: My Personal Rubber Duck Collection!

Brief Description: The website will house and talk about my personal rubber duck collection. It will contain the ducks I've collected over the years since I was a child, so it will have ducks that I actually own. When stripped down to the actual list of ducks themselves, it would have very basic stuff. Think the name of the duck, the date it was obtained, pictures of what the duck currently looks like in my collection, and text about any story I have to share for that duck (such as how I got it or any special context it has for me). The goal is to have an actual record of my collection of ducks that I am satisfied with.

Pages:

1. Brand Name Ducks (will likely have pages within this)
2. Jumbo Ducks
3. Novelty Ducks
4. Misc Ducks
5. Favorite Ducks List

Data to be stored/manipulated: I'm thinking that the data would be information about the ducks themselves. Information such as their type (brand name, jumbo, novelty, or misc.), brand (if they come from one), and date obtained. Since it's only detailing my own collection, only the owner of the site should be able to manipulate this information. I'm not sure if you need a login system for this though.
